WACO COTTON PALACE AND CARNIVAL

Preparations About Completed for Big Attraction Which Opens on November 2.

Waco, Texas, Oct. 26.—Never before thus far in advance of the opening date have preparations for the big Cotton Palace been perfected to such an extent as this year, and there is no longer any doubt that the 1912 exposition will be far ahead of any previous effort. When Governor Colquitt presses the button that will start the palace in operation at 7 o'clock in the evening of November 2, the Cotton Palace will be as complete and perfect a show as it will be a week later when in full blast. The absence of conflicting dates, the promise of the railroads to "go the limit" as regards low rates, the bumper crops—everything tends toward clinching the belief that the Waco Cotton Palace will be the meeting grounds for the whole of Central and East Texas in the early days of November.

If you are not a patron of the New Princess, you are not a booster for Bryan. The New Princess is placing Bryan before the world with the moving picture camera. Why not show your appreciation by attending a theatre where independent pictures are shown—not made by a trust? If you are a Wilson man don't betray his confidence. The New Princess shows only the best pictures, and a visit to this Queen Theatre of Texas will convince you we are right.

This Theatre is not a Theatre for one class but a Theatre for the masses.

We cater to no individual or class. The laboring man's money is as good here as the millionaire's. What we have to say we say it in the open. We do not whisper it to some friend.

Remember our Pony and Cart offer was the first in the field, and is an article of value.

Do you want to follow the leaders, or do you want Bryan to go back?

NOTICE!

Aside from the usual exhibit features, the directors of the palace have made arrangements to make the "Warpath" a carnival pike such as has never before been seen in Texas. Kryl's famous band, which has been playing in the White City at Chicago; the Patterson carnival shows, the village of genuine Waco Indians, several free attractions of a high order—these and many other features already have been arranged for and the directors are determined to make the amusement end of the Cotton Palace one of its main drawing cards. The giant roller coaster or "figure eight" is now in course of construction. This amusement device is a genuine thriller, such as are found in the largest summer parks in the United States. It is said that while absolutely safe in every way, this ride gives the closest approach to an aeroplane of anything that has been invented. Waco will don mardi gras raiment for the occasion and one of the attractions will be the full-fledged carnival which will be the feature on the "Warpath" each night.
